are occupied by poor people. Many of these families lack resources, and will be without refuge. Nevertheless they took the situation without complaint. Preparations for an entrenched camp took another form yesterday. Enormous stocks of goods were placed in the State warehouses for provisioning the Paris.

The Bois de Boulogne has been transformed into a vast pasture, filled with cows and sheep. The animals are guarded by reserves. The beautiful surroundings of the Chateau de Bagatelle have been given over entirely to sheep. The number of sheep pastured in the park exceeds 10,000.

GERMAN CRUISER REPORTED CAPTURED
YANCOUVER, B. C., August 30.—A newspaper dispatch says that the German cruiser Leipzig has been captured by the British cruiser Montcalm and the British cruiser Rainbow off Vancouver Island, after a fight in which 120 men were killed and wounded on the Leipzig.

Officials at the British naval station at Esquimaux refused to give information concerning the capture, but do not deny it. It is expected that the announcement of the battle will be made in London.

contained the deep seed of truth. All soldiers mentioned especially in the New Testament were singled out for praise, while in our own church some of the noblest names in Christian records were those of distinguished soldiers.

To every land, including Germany, the victory will bring a new regime of freedom, of democracy and of justice. We shall liberate the Slav, we shall liberate the Frenchman, and we shall liberate the Italian. This war has brought the liberation of Poland, and the liberation of Ireland has won her to the empire. We shall liberate the oppressed.

IN EXHIBIT OF NAVY
The British people did cheer in the midst of the navy which sank three German cruisers and two destroyers in a dash under cover of a fog into the zone of one of the Heligoland forts, and inflicted a loss of nearly 500 men on the German fleet, at a cost of twenty-nine lives and thirty-eight wounded, and damage to three British warships which will be repaired within ten days.

German air craft dropped several bombs into the city of Paris, where American women tourists faced in going from London in the face of official restraints.

Among the German prisoners of the naval action is the son of Admiral von Tirpitz, German Minister of Marine, to whom the First Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. Churchill, has sent a message of his own safety, while Count von Scherwin, nephew of the German Emperor, is a prisoner in the hands of the French.

A British colony played its first part in the war when the German colony in Samoa surrendered to an expedition from New Zealand.

James Herve Buford.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RICHMOND, Va., August 30.—James Herve Buford, son of Paschal and Francis Owe Buford, died at his home today. He was born July 8, 1891, at Locust Level, the Buford home.

His early life was spent in Buford, where he was a civil engineer by profession, and was engaged on the Buchanan and Southwest Virginia macadamized road in 1914. It was while he was engaged on this road that he met the preliminary survey for the Virginia and Tennessee railroad, and after its completion was appointed resident engineer. At the beginning of the war he supervised the transportation of Southern and Western troops, and the second year he was engaged in the manufacture of railroad iron and steel and shell for the army. After the war Mr. Buford came to his native county, and spent the remainder of his life on the farm.

He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Lucy Henson, of Wytheville, six sons and three daughters, Paschal, of Austin, Texas; Hanson and Stewart, of Central Alabama; of Leonard, Miss James Owe, of Richmond; Robert, Graham, of Dallas, Texas; Mrs. Henderson, of Roanoke; Mrs. Peoples, of San Marcos, Texas; and Miss Bettie Buford, of Norfolk. He is also survived by his brothers, Rowland and Julius B. of Buford, and Isaac H. of Buford, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret Cobbs, of Locust Level.

guns were damaged, and she received also a shell in the dynamo room and a shot aft, which wrecked her cabin.

It was hot work, but at that moment, the British light cruisers and battle cruisers appeared. It was the moment for which they had been waiting. The first shot from one of the British battle cruisers sank a German torpedo cruiser, which had been battering a destroyer.

The German fleet then turned and fled in the direction of Cuxhaven, but was pursued by British destroyers, which did terrible execution with their four-inch guns.

Many of the Germans landed after the battle from the British ships were wounded by revolver bullets. It is declared the revolvers were used by German officers to prevent their men surrendering to the British boats, which were ordered to save their drowning opponents. Some of the boats had been the rescue of the Germans. It is said, were fired on by German cruisers.

ATTACK INITIATED BY BRITISH DESTROYERS
BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND, August 30 (10:20 P. M.).—The attack on the German fleet off Heligoland was initiated by British destroyers, according to the crews of the vessels which participated. The destroyers got fairly close to the German ships before they were discovered. Then a command from the German ships and forts was opened on them, and they gradually drew the German cruisers toward the sea.

For a time the Germans were in a position which gave them the advantage. British destroyers having to bear the brunt of the battle. During one of the hottest phases of the fight two British destroyers got in between two German cruisers, which forced them upon the Britishers' last but not least, one while four other destroyers engaged a third German cruiser and put her out of action. Finally, the British battle cruisers and light cruisers arrived on the scene and quickly put an end to the fight.

TREATED BY PRESS AS BEING WITHOUT SIGNIFICANCE
LONDON, August 30 (10:55 P. M.).—A Marconi dispatch from Berlin gives an official statement concerning the naval battle off Heligoland. It says:

"The naval engagements off Heligoland is treated by the press as being without significance, and as an occurrence which cannot affect the general situation in the war. The British battle cruisers and light cruisers arrived on the scene and quickly put an end to the fight."

STATEMENT DESCRIBES FIGHT OFF HELIGOLAND
LONDON, August 30 (10:55 P. M.).—An official statement issued tonight describing the action between the British and German warships off Heligoland, says:

"The principle of the operation was a scouting movement by a strong force of destroyers to cut off the German light craft from home and engage them at leisure in the open sea."

After briefly describing the sinking of three German cruisers—the Mainz, Cöln and Admiral, the statement continues:

"Although only two of the enemy's destroyers were actually observed to sink, most of the other eighteen or twenty destroyers were well punished, and only saved themselves by a scattered flight."

"The superior gun power and strength of the British destroyers, ship for ship, was demonstrated conclusively. The destroyers themselves did not hesitate to engage the enemy's cruisers, both with guns and torpedoes, and two of them got knocked about in the process."

"Intercepted German signals and other information from German sources confirms the report of Admiral Beatty as to the sinking of the third German cruiser, which now appears to have been the Admiral."

"The British destroyers exposed themselves to considerable risk in endeavoring to save as many as possible of the German steamers. British officers present vowed for the fact that the German officers were observed firing at their own men in the water with pistols, and that several were shot before their eyes."

"Under these peculiar circumstances, a destroyer was actually picked up wounded with boats when she was driven off by the approach of another German cruiser, and had to leave two of her boats containing one officer and nine men behind. It was feared these would be made prisoners, but happily a submarine arrived and brought the British party home."

"As it was not possible to accommodate the thirty Germans in the submarine, they were allowed to return home in charge of a lieutenant."

"The complements of the five German vessels known to have been sunk aggregated 1,250 officers and men, all of whom, with the exception of those thirty and 300 persons wounded and otherwise, perished."

"Besides this there was the loss aboard the German torpedo boats and other cruisers which did not sink during the action."

"The First Lord of the Admiralty has telegraphed the American ambassador at Berlin desiring him to inform Admiral von Tirpitz, the German Minister of Marine that his son had been saved and had not been wounded."

but nothing has done so more than this silent road along which this inner death engine had so lately passed. Since it entered Belgium, its only thought has been "on, on."

"On, on to Paris and to repeat the glories of our fathers."

Why from the scheme of their collection they have omitted the very wealthy towns of Lille, Roubaix and Tourcoing, I cannot understand, but at any moment they may send a force there (for they are open towns) to extract their price.

"Give us money," their demand is, "or we will sack your town"—and they sometimes sack it anyhow.

For Lille there is a hard pill to swallow. Its people, I have often heard in the past days, are the people in all France. The sieges they have withstood are too numerous to remember.

TURKEY MAY DECLARE WAR WITHIN NEXT FEW HOURS
British Government Gives Warning That in Starting Campaign, She Signs Own Death Warrant.

LONDON, August 30 (2:05 A. M.).—The Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent to-day says:

"Turkey may declare war at any moment. It is now only a matter of a few days—possibly a few hours. All efforts of the powers in the Triple Entente have failed, and the London embassy admits the situation is grave."

The military party dominant in Constantinople has concluded that the present is the best time to obtain the restoration of Macedonia and the Aegean Islands.

"German officers and men are being poured into Constantinople. Turkey apparently counts on the Balkan States, appearing among themselves while Turkey fights Greece but it seems likely that Turkey's declaration of war against Greece will be regarded as a hostile act by the Triple Entente, which will send a fleet to dispose of all the Turkish and German ships."

"The British government has warned Turkey plainly that in starting any campaign, she signs her own death warrant."

PERMANENCE AND BRIGHTS DISEASE
We have been asked as to the permanence of the results in Bright's Disease under FULTON'S Compound. Many cases report permanence.

For instance, in the case of R. M. Wood, of San Francisco, Cal.: It was twelve years ago that the most noted physician in San Francisco, Dr. J. C. Felt, advised him to take FULTON'S Compound. He was put on FULTON'S Compound, and not only made a recovery, but the permanence of the results obtained may be judged from the fact that he is at this writing (February, 1914) of normal weight and promoting his publication with his usual energy.

The ability of FULTON'S Compound to oppose renal degeneration and reduce albumin in many cases of Bright's Disease is not a matter of opinion, but a FACT IN PHYSIOLOGY. It is a fact that has been proved by a test that will show the percentage from week to week. As the albumin declines improvement comes, and recovery follows. Recoveries have been reported in thousands of cases. Formulas and literature mailed on request. John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco. For sale at druggists.—A4V.

SAMOA ISLAND SEAPORT SURRENDERS TO BRITISH

Apia, Capital of German Part of Group, Capitulated to Forces From New Zealand.

STRONG STRATEGIC POSITION
Considered Kaiser's Most Valuable Possession in Pacific—Occupied City Is Commercial Metropolis of Group and Thriving Municipality.

LONDON, August 30 (7:30 P. M.).—The official information bureau announces that Apia, a seaport of Upolu, Samoa Islands and capital of the German part of the group, surrendered on the morning of August 29 to a British force from New Zealand.

Germany's Samoan territory has been considered her most strategic possession in the Pacific. Following the dissolution of the agreement of 1889 by which the United States, Germany and Great Britain joined in guaranteeing the neutrality and independence of the Samoan group, a treaty of partition was signed in Washington in 1899.

By this treaty all three powers continued to enjoy equality of commerce, but Great Britain's territorial claims were extinguished and the islands were divided between the United States and Germany. Upolu, 171 degrees West was recognized as the dividing line. The two largest islands, Upolu and Savaii, with some smaller members of the group, passed to Germany, and Tutuila and others came under American control.

Tutuila is considered the strategic territory of the group. At Pago Pago, a splendid land-locked harbor, the United States has a naval and coaling station.

Apia, seized by the British, the commercial metropolis of the group, contains the churches, schools and residences and in the seat of the training college of the London Missionary Society. Robert Louis Stevenson, the novelist made his home in Upolu for the last years of his life and was buried on one of the mountains.

When Japan entered the European conflict by her declaration of war on Germany and before her explicit declaration that her operations would be confined to the China Sea, the apprehension that she might seize German Samoa, and thus gain a foothold between Hawaii and her own coast, gave rise to much speculation regarding Washington's attitude in such an eventuality.

THE NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY LAW.
Its Application to Other Organizations Needed.

The Newspaper Publicity Law enacted by Congress some time ago, ought to be applied to many other business organizations. This law provides that all publications must file an affidavit with the Postmaster-General, stating that they are not controlled by any person or persons, and that they are not controlled by any person or persons, and that they are not controlled by any person or persons.

Business should be required to give full publicity to prices, underhand methods of attaining lawful objects. A law which could produce such results would bring capital and labor into the open field and their differences would be less, and they could be settled more amicably than they are now.
